You have the right to ask questions about what is happening to you.

You have the right to go to school.

You have the right to talk to people about things you don’t like or don’t understand.

This Charter of Rights has been especially written for children and young people who are unable to live with their parents and who are living in short or long-term Out of Home Care in the ACT. You may be living with someone from your family, or with another family in foster care — or with other children or young people in residential care.

Why is the Charter of Rights important? The Charter of Rights sets out what you can expect from the people who are looking after you and work with you, when you are in care. All of these people have to make sure that the things they do for you — and allow you to do — respect your rights.

If you want help to fix a problem, or if you want someone to act on your behalf, there are lots of people you can talk to.

You have the right to talk to people you care about and know about your family and cultural history.

You have the right to have contact with the people you live with.

Your carer
Your agency caseworker
Your Care and Protection caseworker

Children and Young People COR Liaison Contact 6205 2898
Care and Protection, After Hours Service 1300 556 729
Consumer Advocacy and Quality Service 62050473 or 62074504 or email DHCSConsumerAdvoca@act.gov.au
CREATE Foundation 1800 685 105 create@create.org.au www.create.org.au
Lifeline 1800 655 105 www.lifeline.org.au

Contact 62052222 or email ACTkids@act.gov.au
Public Advocate 62070707 or email pa@act.gov.au
Health Direct Australia 1800 022 222 www.healthdirect.org.au
You have the right to be safe and looked after.

You have the right to be respected.

You have the right to have fun, play and be healthy.

You have the right to be treated fairly.

You have the right to be heard.

You have the right to privacy and have your own things.